

CASE STUDY – JAMES

James is now in your care. He admitted to using butane gas six months ago but he said that he would not do it again. Since that time he has not been in any trouble and has had good reports from school.

A feature in this week's local paper told of children in the area sniffing solvents. They mention that they were seen in a graveyard that is just behind your location.

You are concerned that the children in the report are of the same age as three children in your care, including James. You are also concerned because James was out late on the two nights before the report, although he has recently mentioned a new girlfriend.
