Trust builder

Effective group working is about relationships and trust. This is even more crucial if you will be working remotely.

What common bonds and values are shared across the group?

What do you think will help develop and support positive relationships and trust across the group?

What does leadership look and feel like in the group and in a remote context?

Iriss